

PARENTS, ARE YOU READY?

Family Life Victoria presents a two-hour workshop for parents of primary aged children dealing with young children's curiosity about sex.

Many parents experience some difficulty initiating discussion or answering questions with their children on sexual matters. This workshop aims to help parents feel more confident and competent in communicating with young children about sexuality.

A trained educator conducts the workshop in a relaxed, informal way. Discussion in small groups provides opportunities for parents to share their ideas about:

- What is sexuality - and when does it begin?
- The role family plays in a child's sexual development.
- How to communicate clearly the message you want your child to receive i.e. how to deal with "awkward" questions and "challenging" behaviours.
